Cancer May Strike 12,000

Cancer is expected to strike 12,000 Virginians and cause 6,300 deaths in the state during 1970, according to American Cancer Society estimates.

In its recently released publication, "1970 Cancer Facts and Figures," the Society reports that approximately 208,000 Americans will be saved from cancer in the coming year. However, an estimated 104,000 cancer patients will probably die in 1970 who might have been saved by earlier and better treatment.

The new edition of "Facts" reports a skyrocketing lung cancer death rate for American men, growing faster than can be attributed to the population increase. An estimated 51,000 American men will die of lung cancer in 1970, which is 4,000 more than in 1968. In Virginia there will be an estimated 1,400 new cases of lung cancer in 1970.

While lung cancer continues to be the chief cause of cancer death among American men, breast cancer kills more American women than any other form of the disease. In 1937, uterine cancer was the greatest cancer hazard for American women, but since then--thanks to the Pap test and improved treatment -- the death rate has been more than cut in half.

The Society predicts that the 12,000 new cancer cases in Virginia will include 1,200 new cases of cancer of the colon-rectum and 1,200 of breast cancer; 300 oral cancer; 950 cancer of the uterus; 750, prostrate cancer; 300, stomach cancer; 350, leukemia; and 2,300 new cases of skin cancer.

"Cancer Facts" also reports that in the late 1930's, fewer than one-in-five cancer patients was being saved, whereas today one-in-three is being saved. There are 1.5 million people alive in the United States who have been cured of cancer. The Society defines "cure" as freedom from evidence of the disease five years after diagnosis and treatment.

The Pastor Speaks

The Church's Great Need

"And so were the Churches established in the faith and increased in number daily" . . . Acts 16:5.

Paul and Silas were zealous, industrious workers for Christ. Everywhere they went they left converts. Preaching the word of God, and appointing leaders as they went from city to city, they established Churches that grew in faith and numbers . . . Acts 16:4,5.

Today the average Church is quite different. Most preachers are more interested in "politics" than preaching and demonstrating than doing the work of God. Many Churches are closing the doors on Sunday nights and have only a token attendance on prayer meeting nights. The reason is simple. The Churches that have grown liberal in Theology have departed from "The Faith". Churches that are growing are preaching and teaching the word of God.

Has your Church grown cold and indifferent to its greatest need?A good verse of scripture to memorize this week would be (Rev. 18:4).

There's the Devil to brave, and a world to woo,
There is work for us all to do;
Yet we sit and complain, and scare breathe His name,
While His Truth is preached by the few!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOD'S WILL

Lesson for February 15, 1970

Background Scripture: Deuteronomy 26:5-11; Matthew 8:5-17, Luke 8:26-36; Acts 16:25-34
Devotional Reading: Psalms 73:1-8

The words of Jesus deeply moved many who heard him. Yet it was more than words that won men to him. For, in addition to the words, there were also the mighty acts he performed.

One such incident was the healing of the centurion's servant (Matthew 8:5-13). We all know the story, yet many of us have probably never considered deeply the implications of this "mighty act" of Jesus When we look at it carefully, it may have some surprises for us,

The Unlikely Candidate

For one thing, when you think of it, the centurion is a rather unlikely candidate for a healing miracle. He was not a Jew. It is unlikely that he shared any religious beliefs with Jesus. Since he was not a Jew, he could hardly have looked to Jesus as the Messiah. Actually, as a Roman soldier, he was even considered an enemy.

In avowed agnostic once came to me saying, "I'm not a Christian and I don't know that I believe in God, yet if you would pray for my wife, I would deeply appreciate it." He too seemed an unlikely candidate to ask something from God, yet I remembered that it was often people like this to whom Jesus responded with his mighty acts, God will not be limited by the lines which men draw, Secondly, although the man did not share Jewish beliefs, he obviously believed in Jesus, That is, he was convinced that Jesus had the power to perform a mighty act of healing. Whether he was the Messiah, the Son of God, or a prophet was not important to him. The important thing was his trust in Jesus and his authority.

Once again, this may strike us as surprising. Some of us may have the idea that the secret of prayer is to hold the "right" theology or know the "right" method. Yet, as Jesus demonstrated repeatedly in the gospels, it is more important for a man to respond to Jesus with a personal trust in his authority and power.

No Limitations

Third, it was not necessary for Jesus to see and touch the centurion's servant, Jesus was quite willing to go to the commander's home, but the Roman realized that Jesus' authority was not limited by time and space. It was not hocus-pocus or sleight-of-hand that Jesus performed in his healing ministry. Jesus, the centurion perceived, was a man who possessed authority over the welfare of men's bodies. He likened Jesus' acts of healing to the military orders which he gave to his Roman subordinates.

Even today we find that the power of God is not limited by dimensions of time and space. Thousands of miles may separate someone who is ill or in difficulty and a small group of concerned people who pray for that person, but the power of God may be released just as powerfully as if they were in the same room.

No Doubts

Finally, we note that Jesus did not hesitate to heal the servant. He did not say to the centurion, "I'm sorry, you are not worthy to make such a request of me," or "Just accept this sickness, it is God's punishment for your pagan faith," or "Don't worry, this illness will be good for your servant: it will help him grow spiritually," or "Too bad, it's not God's will for him to be healed." Nor, you will find, did Jesus ever say these things to anyone who came to him! I defy you to find one instance in which Jesus refused healing to anyone. Show me one place in the gospels where he says, "Lord, if it be thy will, heal this person!"

You will not find any such passages, for obviously, it is not God's will to withhold healing. As in Nazareth, where he could do "no mighty works because of their unbelief," men can sometimes thwart that will; but Jesus never doubted what God desired for men.

re-Cured Tobacco Allotments Mailed

Notices of individual farm acreage allotments and ballots for marketing referendums have been mailed to farm operators, J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, has announced.

The notices are sent in advance of the Feb. 16-20 marketing mail referendum so farmers will know how they will be voting on would affect their individual farming operations for 1970.

Ballots may be returned to the Appomattox County ASCS Office during the period Feb. 16 -20.

Under the 1970 crop of Virginia fire-cured tobacco, the Department of Agriculture has announced a total of 11,685 acres available for allotment. This includes 10,322 acres available for allotment last year.

Growers voting in the referendum may approve or disapprove marketing quotas for the 1970, 1971, and 1972 crops of fire-cured tobacco.

All growers 18 years of age or older who on the quotas. Also, each person 18 years of age or older who was either the owner or operator of a farm for which a 1969 fire-cured tobacco allotment was established is eligible to vote even if no tobacco was actually produced on the farm in 1969 if an allotment was established for the farm for 1970.

If at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum approve quotas by voting YES, the law provides that quotas and acreage allotments will be in effect for 1970, 1971 and 1972. Penalties for marketing "excess" tobacco will also be in effect, and price-support will be available to growers who do not exceed their farm acreage allotments!

If marketing quotas are not approved in this referendum, there will be no quotas, no marketing penalties and no price-support on the 1970 crop. In that event, another vote would be held next year on quotas for the following three years.
